Whether it be a resort, spa, restaurant, or home....one should feel sacred while inhabiting that space," says Shannon Scott, principal of Shannon Scott Design, a boutique international interior design firm focusing on environmentally-conscious hospitality & residential interiors. By creating a place/space where one feels sacred and at peace, the result is happier, more content individuals. We are deeply affected by our surroundings on both an emotional and physical level; thus, we return to where we feel happy and safe. We want to be there, relax there, entertain there, live there. Our purpose is to create just such environments for our clients...Sacred Spaces... personal sanctuaries, away from the stress of our everyday lives...for all who inhabit and dwell within them.
